DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

1-341. Claims 1-7, drawn to a genetically engineered mammalian cell, particularly an embryonic stem cell, comprising a nucleotide sequence that has been inserted into a gene, wherein the gene is one of SEQ ID NOs 1-341, classified in classes 435, 435, 435, 800 and 800 subclasses 325, 352, 354, 14 and 18. Each of groups 1-341 corresponds to a cell, wherein the gene is one of SEQ ID NOs: 1-341 respectively.

Inventions 1-341 are patentably distinct each from the other. Inventions are patentably distinct if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions have different functions. Each of the groups embraces a different nucleotide sequence, each having a different chemical structure, wherein each nucleotide sequence can encode a different protein. As such the nucleotide sequences are different and should be restricted. Moreover, MPEP 803.04 states:

Nucleotide sequences encoding different proteins are structurally distinct chemical compounds and are unrelated to one another. These sequences are thus deemed to normally constitute independent and distinct inventions within the meaning of 35 U.S.C. 121. Absent evidence to the contrary, each such nucleotide sequence is presumed to represent an independent and distinct invention, subject to a restriction requirement pursuant to 35 U.S.C. 121 and 37 CFR 1.141 et seq. Nevertheless, to further aid the biotechnology industry in protecting its intellectual property without creating an undue burden on the Office, the Commissioner has decided sua sponte to partially waive the requirements of 37 CFR 1.141 et seq. and permit a reasonable number of such nucleotide sequences to be claimed in a single application. See Examination of Patent Applications Containing Nucleotide Sequences, 1192 O.G. 68 (November 19, 1996).

Although the MPEP deems that up to ten nucleotide sequences may be searched without restriction, it has recently been decided by the Director of Biotechnology at the USPTO that searching more than one sequence per application will place an undue burden upon the Examiner and the Office. For this reason, restriction to ONE SEQUENCE is being applied to all applications at this time.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter directed to different nucleotide sequences and separate search requirement, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
